Water Route from the Gulf of Mexico to the Lucille Ocean.

One of the projects considered by the late Mississippi river convention, and since then explained at length by some of the western and seath One of the projects considered by the 1878 site-sissippi river convention, and since then expisited at length by some of the western and scattweetern papers, is a proposed transcontinental water route. This is he era of attpendous enterprises, and bold imaginations have not shrunk from the conception of a great water fine from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pasific ocean. From the headwaters of the Missouri to the headwaters of the Missouri to the headwaters of the Missouri of the headwaters of the Columbia the distance does not greatly exceed one hundred miles, and it is over this pass that amounts spring provose to conduct the commerce of two worlds, provose to conduct the commerce of two worlds, the Kaisse City Times puts the probable cost of the necessary founceting canal and improvements along the Missouri as the mild figure of $52,000,000, and grows enthus; astic over the promise of independence of railway monopoles, and the solicy to snap pair flugers exultingly in the face of de-Lesseps. It is not impossible that the future historican of the republic may record the completion of some anch work as this. But the crust "head waters" is painfully indefinite. The fact that two brooks, which are the ultimate sorrees for wo rivers, take their rise within a comparative-ly short distance of each other does not prove the leastbility of a canaship intercommunication. The Missouri is now navigation of the read waters of the Columbia, though a considerable stream, is full of rapids. A giance at the map shows the enormous distance between these, interfaceted only by mountain to rents flewing through canyons, and about as a wallable for navigation as the upper St. Louis. THE NEW ANSANE ASYLUM

WHAT HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED DURING THE YEAR. The Building England and Protected from

RECULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGOSTAN. SALEM, Dec. 23, 1881. Work on this institution having been nominally uspended for the winter season, a resume of what has been accomplished since work commenced on the foundation, about the 1st of June last, may prove interesting to your readers. The entire bulldtract before the storms of winter overtook him and compelled him to suspend operations. His work proval of not only the board of building commisthe only comment belog one of surprise that he succeeded in doing so much labor in so brief a time. Some idea may be gained of the immeasity of the building when it is known that over 2,000,000 brick the walk over one-third and almost one-hall states.

There will be but very little brick work necessary on the inside to complete the building. The reef is also completed and that too has been carried forward muder great difficulties. Means. Crawded and Star g lave, however, succeeded in overcoping all obstictes and are put in githe it work downlin good at shaps. The towers are finished with the exception of a little painting, which is being done at this time. The main partitions are all up as well as a great number of the cross partitions, and the floors are laid in a few of the apartments. The door of frames and window sashes are well under way as well as the brackels necessary for immediate use. The main pipes for the furnaces are laid, although large quantities of inside piping will be necessary to make things in readiness for lathing and plastering. W. H. Moore, Esq., of Portland, has the contract for the furnace work, which in itself is a guarantee that the building will be well warned. The windows are boarded up and the building is thoroughly protected from winter rains. The board of huilding commissioners, consisting of Gov. Thayer, Hon R. P. Earhart, secretary of state, and Hon, Edward Hirrch, state treasurer, have been unfirting in their efforts to push the work forward, using good judgment in the outlay of the appropriation, made for that purpose, and in their selection of contractors and omployes, who without exception have worked well and faithfully, with an eye to the interests of the state and the ultimate success of the enterprise. The convicts as well have worked faithfully. Mr. Manu, the breek contractor, especially commenting very favorably upon the assistance they readered him.

whole speak very highly of them. W. F. Boothby, Bsc., the appearising architect, is now spending a short time in California, where he was accompanied by Dr. H. Carpenter of your city, the medical superintendent. Buring their stay they made it a point to v.sit the Napa seylum for the insane with a view of n ore theoroughly posting themselves in the vacious details which add to the comfort and health-restoring properties of a well constructed saylum building. Dr. Carpenter has recently returned, and from bitn and letters received from Mr. Bootsby we learn that through the kindness of Superintendent learn that through the kindness of Superintendent Wittins of the Napa seylum they were shown through the entire building, and its parits and de-merits were pointed out to them in order that in the merits were jointed out to then in order that in the construction; of our own building these gentlemen could wait themselves of the one and avoid the other. Supt. Wilkins examined studiously and closely the plans of the Gregon say. In and expressed himself very much pleased with both its outside appearance and internal completeness, and expressed surprise that as much had been accomplished with so small an outlet of money. He offered very many valuable suggestions, and Mensa, Boothby and Carpenter each received such information as will prove invaluable to them as the work on the Gregon building propresses. These gentlemen are thoroughly interested in the institution and will in the finter, as in the past, carefully consider every matrix of importance and watch real outly the details of the work. Mr. Boothby is a gentlemen of criended experience as an architect and having made his present work a study, is fully considered to questioned where it is a full to the fable angely; but I don't care a snap if you be a few of the upone of as regards ventilation, heating and other qualifica-tions, so essential to the successful care and treat-ment of the insume. He too has made his work as study and takes a lively interest in the work as it progresses. Every thing indicates that the new building will be a perfect model of elegantsinglic-ity, completeness of detail and in all matters con-ductive to the comfort and convenience of the in-mates and employes; it will not be excelled by any asylum in older states.

THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

[Detroit Poet and Tribune.]

[Rearty a half century ago an association was formed for the execution of a lotty monument at the capital to the memory of George Washington. Fainds were collected, the site was chosen and the preliminary work so far completed as to gilow of the laying of the corner stone July 4, 184c; on which eccasion at address, was delivered by Hon. Robert C. Winthroit, then speaker of the house of representatives. The work progressed satisfactority till the committed proached a height of 156 feet, when the funds became exhausted and further progress was indefinitely suspended. The civil war which emited was, of course, fatal to any scheme for obtaining furtherlyid, and it was not till after its close that various methods were organized for procuring the necessary means for the prosecution of the work; all of which had nd practical result, and it was left.

This accomplished, the laying of the courses was reamond in Augus; of last year. A few of the surplus marble blocks found minuted from many years exposure were removed, reducing the hight from 15 to 150 feet. Since then, to the middle of August of the present year, 35 courses or 70 feet have been of the present year, 35 courses of 70 feet have been added, making the clayation reached that of Bunker Hill incomment, it is estimated that by the of the present year, and the content of that of Bunker Hill shouldent. It is estimated that by the class of the year a hight of 250 feet will be attained not including the granite base, which extends it not below the surface.

One hundred men are employed in outling and preparing the blocks in the sheds around, and 12 in setting them. The marble Blocks have a uniform thickness of two feet, but are irregular in length, and each is necembered by a granite or inner block. The blocks have believed by an eligible profits having been subjected, as stated, to a test of 170 tong each, and not being at present axed to the weight having been subjected, as estied, to a test of 170 ions each, and not being at present taxod beyond shown tons.

When completed, this monument will be the leftiests tructure eyer reared by man, towering 30 feet above the great pyramid of Cheops, ninety-fixed feet above 5t. Peter's at Rome and two and a half times higher than Bunker Hill monument. The measurement at the base is fifty-live feet square, lessening one-quarter of an inch to the foot as the column ascends. A small portion of the memorini atoms, contributed by states, cities, towns, asconatoms and foreign governments have already been placed in the niches assigned to them, the remainder being bounded near by.

It is estimated that the monument may be completed in the course of 1895. Were it not for interriptions, two courses, or four feet her week could be added, but changes in the gearing, inclement wenther, delay in the arrival of material and various causes frequently retard progress. Already, however, the monument begins to peop however interest theight if after the monument of theight in a first the first present height if after the activation of visitors, and as it progresses as it is completed in it is a length fluished, it must prove the attention of visitors, and as it progresses as it is completed in the maximum and strangers. weeks bees. I suppose you will want $500 (striking the fable angrily); but I don't care a snap if you bring in 500 such witnesses. Judge Cox demanded quied.

"All rish t, your honor; I will be quiet now."

Davidge—If your honor please, I note the free agency, quoted by priconer, operate all right now, as he can keep quiet when he desires.

Guitean—I don't pretend I'm insane now, any more that you are; but on the 2d of July, and thirty days before, I was insane. That's the issue.

Davidge—Then if you are sane now you certainly should how how to behave yourself.

'Quitean—I do, and I behave just as well as you. I sppear as my own connect and have as much right to talk as you have. You have altogether too much in any on this case. You are as bad as a man born with the clarrhes. Now you keep quiet.

Witness did not believe the prisoner acted under an insane debusion when he shot the procident, and thought' to commit he act, then he was inspired, in another sense he wasn't. Recess

Honry I. Steams, superintendent of the Hartford retreat for the insane, was the next witness. From 800 to 1000 cases of insafity had come under the supervision during the eight years I.c had been consected with the retroat. Witness made four examinations of the prisoner at the jail, directed to his object, and here the steam of the prisoner of the saninations of the prisoner at the jail, directed to his physical and mental condition.

Guitsan interrupted, saying, "You came to me, doctor, as a friend, and I, supposing you were going to resilty for definee, tolked very freely with you about my religious feedings and all about myself, but Corkhill's money was too much for you. I want to say here that I don't pretend that I am any more insane at this minute than Davidge is. I will not say that for Corkhill, for I think he is cracked, (Laughter,) but I rest, my case right on this claim that I was insane on the 2d July when my inspiration and state of mind impolied me inpont the prevident. To make it short, that's all there is of this case.

Guiteau a Feura Argused.

"Yes, to the gallows." This was the suswer which a person with a clear, ringing voice, sitting at some distance boiling distinct, agave yesterday atteneous to one of Guiteau, agave yesterday atteneous to one of Guiteau solitoquies, in which he solit. "I opened my mail for the first, time this morning, and there was but one crank letter in the whole lot. The hase good showing. People are learning. They are beginning to look on me as a great mail I don't care a snap whether I am great or a little man. I know one thing, however, I'm getting more nopular. I'm getting up—"

It was not the kind of an interruption that pleases guitens. Later on he once more showed his craven fear and turned deatily pale when a tall, ham-jaw-boned man with a lawiers jaw and iron-gray beard, who looked as if he might be a Georgia "croker" or Vermont Yaskee, stood in the Guitlemes about ten feet behind the greaner and acted as about to move forward. Guiteau became very nervous and Scoville and wife, who insually bear the excitement of the concreted with composure, seemed somewhat startled. Ballits in charge of Guiteau quickly shouled, "Sit down, sir, sit down." It appeared the man simply wished to move his position.

gard to great fortunes, which ought to be core and think over the matter for awhile be ore rected. The thought is w dely prevalent that making a very loud demand for indomnity or the man who has ten or twenty millions makes reparation. it necessary for many men to have nothing. Now if the reason that some men are poor is because other men are rich, then the commun nistic theory is the true one. If by cwning mote than other people you are keeping them out of their fair share of this world's gdods, then it the only way to keep them level—to keep the fools or less expable from wasting their shares and the more capable from getting themwould be to throw all into a common fund, to be administered for the equal benefit of all, and this is communists. The application of the principle could not be limited to the great millionaires: It could not logically stop directly nto British hands? there. If it wrongs the poor man for another man to own twenty million dollars it wrongs him for that other to own one million, or one has fared badly from the first, and seen faring hundred thousand, or twenty thousand, or any worse during the last two or three days than sum above what would be one man's shere, if ever. Al the experts in cases of insanity are all the property in the world were equally di- pronounding him same. He is rational enough vided. Once admit that the world's posses- to comp chend the situation, and in whatsosions are a fixed quantity of which one man ever direction he turns he sees a gallows at the can acquire more than one equal share only by and of every vists. A noticeable feature o his depriving some one clas of his share, and the behavior is his disappointment and slarm as the average is simp e robbery.

world's wealth is not a fixed quantity. On the to be telerated a moment in court. contrary it is a continually increasing quantity, and it increases too main y by the organized effects of the men who own millions of capital. There are exceptions of course, but as a rule the men who possess millions are the right men to consent them. They muse better use of them for the public at large than if they were divided up among less capable men. Concentration of apital, aggregation of wealth, is indispersable for carrying on great in lustrial operations. Every large amount of money so concentrated and employed becomes a reservoir from which labor draws its wages and trade derives its activity and profits. Looking at the mater in this way political aconom sis long ago came to the conclusion that the rich men of a free combody of their "share" of property they increase. the shares of all.

Look at the matter a little further. The man them nor wear them out on his back in clothes, nor consume more than at infinitesimal part. The C licago Times says if at the reason why tional way the more employment of a useful on steel rails is that, having supplied themand profitable kind he gives to others. He solves with ralls at high rates, they do not reserving a fortune has gone out of fashion low rates. It compares them to merchants He wants it to carn something, and he there who have large stocks of goods on hand, and fore outs it to some use. He puts it perhaps who would therefore lose by reduction into railroad honds; if so he stimulates rail- Mr. T. F. Oakes, vice president of the Northroad building and causes the employment of thousands of men. He may build an iron mill with it or start manufacturity enterprises of other kinds. If to, he enables other hundreds or thousands to earn their bread. Or he may invest it in grain. If he does that he stores up food for the many, making the futurn price of it lower than it otherwise would he. Even if he puts it into government bonds e does a medul thing, of benefit to hie whole people, whose government oredit is thus up-held. In short the millionaire, no matter how he employs his money, helps instead of hurting the poor man. He can get no benefit from his money himself without benefiting a hers. The rich are not to be held in honor or esteem hengues they are rich. Only servile minds sculd be exachle of that. At the tame time it is folly to mesent that rich men, possessors of great fortunes, are a curse to a country. They ere a positive necessity to organized industry, refore to civ lixation. They ake noth from the poor man, but enable him to obtain much. They redeem a country from the dead level of inactivity and rescus if from unprogressive poverty. Hence the frequent asertion that as the rica grow richer the poor grow poorer is not true-certainly it is not true in America. The rich do indeed grow richer, but the converse rot only does not fol low but his no foundation. The condition of the poor throughout the world was never, on the whole, so good as now. A thousand agencles of humanity and civi ization, unknown in former times, are constantly at work for their

WAR SHIPS. Sir E. J. Reed, for many years chief constructor of the British navy, which post 10 relinguished in 1870 to enter parliament, is now travelling in the United States. The New York Herald has succeeded in getting a "talk" out of him on the navies of Europe. He says that while the navy of England is at present stronger than any other, it is not so pre-eminently afrong as to secure to that country the undisputel command of the seas. On the contrary, the navy of France under the republic is very rapidly advancing toward an equality with the British navy in the matter of iron-clas seajoing ships, while Germany is building up a onsiderable fleet. Italy, too, is creating a navy of very fast ships, with armor placed here and there over the more vital parts. In Engsh and Italian ships of recent construction the armor has been contracted to narrow limta. In the French navy the system of protectng the whole length of the ship is stil ad. pered to. It is asserted that a ship any sort of gun that can get o few shots at British or Italian men-of. war of recent type can put them hors du combdt, and the concession is herefore made that he French vessels would have an immense advantage in time of war. The Italian ships, even the newest, largest and most costly, cannot be regarded as iron-clads in any ordinary acceptance of that term. but they have great engine power, immense guns and specil enough to enable fluor to keep away from most sups. Of late years English vessels are built jon a sort of compromise between the Italian and French systems. But this Englishma: believes in heavily armored vessels constructed for actual tighting; and he says that when the art of fighting comes to consist primarily in ability to run away from an antagonist, then this plan of construction will be valuable, and not before. Hence he thinks the British government is now making a mistake in its plants of constructing the of war. This view he says, prevails in Englands but usual construction has adopted a particular course, and even a change of government makes us difference, for both parties being subservent when in power to the same subordinate servants naturally must support each other's ship-building policy.

Rear-Admiral John Rodgers, president of the naval advisory board, is one of the e dest and

The amouncement has been made, on apparently good authority, that a joint stock company has been organized in New York for supplying eastern cities with coal gas made in Western Pennsylvania and conducted to the place of consumption through a system of pipes. VASSOUNDS, Dec. 25 -- 805 P. M.

Jeannette was crushed in the ter, as petween Behring straits and Noya Zemida, four. uttadred infles from the Siberian constand about She was, I think, keeping two Aretle problems in as view the would have kept to the continuard of Slakhow or New Stherian Islands. The latter chiest ins kept her as far to the northward as the ice pack would allow, and no doubt an unlocky storm has yet peafed the fate of the Hansa Fary and many other Acette discovery ships. I think it probable that she with respect to the Slakhow Islands, or ever by on the wintered at the Slakhow Islands, or ever by on the Table 19 to Swanson Sunta City. The All Russes & Amily, Day Stee A.W. Fish and chied that the Slakhow Islands, or ever by on the Table 19 to San Francisco. Subortan count, and her route the rete took her south Thee, San Francisco esting, and she may have reached a much higher. Chus E Martin, S.F. The position where the three beats became separation of Markov Markov John M. Lowell, Aurora of Shainble Kalama rated, only fifty miles off the mouth of the Lena I W. I. Alderman, Dayton J. H. Swager, cell milantic learning of the Markov Ma river, shows that very reasonable hopes may be entertained that the missing boat No. 2 will soon be beard from. I have the atmost faith that Licut, De Long has done at that man could do to make his expedience as and its details will be doubly interesting as the first attempt to reach the pole from the Pagine ocean. If De Long did not follow the axis of the warm Japanese current the process of the proces the axis of the warm Japanese current of Bewely, Sheridan Japanese current of Behring's strait, this should be done before this avenue is condemned as impracticable.

As to the return of De Long's party to the United States, the route will make but little difference after. states, the route will make but little difference after 'alling into the hospitable bands of the Russians. but those suggested by Kennan, the Siberian explorer, seem the most sensible of the many given. My previously published opinion, which was also should be sought on the outlying northwestern tslands of the Parry Archipelago, is so far out o.

loss that it will be interesting to know whether any that direction. I think that his instructions or intentions to keep the northeast passage in view as a secondary object, has prevented his examining voyage. The direction he was taking when list seen, on the 3d of Sept., 1873, would also confirm this. It has been very forbinste that the Seamotte was a staucht vessel, built expressely for see navigation, for had she been of the denal class His rottest with boats and sledges a distance of 500 niles after a two winters' solourn in the Arctic, in such a short time, shows it to be one of the most the many abandoned Polar vessels. The prompt rescue and retief of two boat parties by the Russians at the mouth of Loux river, at much expense and hardship, adds another debt to the many that we owe that country. I put me faith whatever in the telegraphic reports that ithe Russian officials in siteria have escretily with-held aformation concerning the Jeannette from 4 to public for a long than before disclosure. The day and place of rescue and the methods of franscortation from there to Irkutsk, the nearest telegraph at station, during the winter escent, nakes clegra, h station, during the winter ceason, make uch an idea untenable. Dei oug's failure north o reat Siberian rivers during the summer season, and he Polynia of the gulf stream and other ocean cur rents. His catastrophe shows that the only untried route to the pole up to the time of his expedition is as bazardous and uncertain as those already tried. His fate leaves but little doubt as to than which must have befullen the American whalers, the Vigilant and Mount Wollaston, a fate which is as terrible as the imagination can conceive. Should the loss of the Feannetto have coupled to it is as territor as the resinetto have coupled to it the loss of the English exploring yacht Erra, under Leigh Smith, a not unlikely fate viewed in the light of present circumstances, the tebdency of Arctig advocates of exploration will be to look with better favor in the more hazardous, but here probably successful methods of scriat navigation, which are now being strongly advocated in England and America. DeLong's ill-fated navigation of the Eastern filberian coast will also do much the prevent the prospective coasting commerce to the mouth of the Leniar for, which seemed likely to spring up as a result of Nordensijold's voyage through the northeress peakage in 1878-79, and its consequent recommends inus, resulting from an unusually open season at hat time. I do not believe that DeLong's alignets will have any deterring influence on future Polar exploration, but rather will assist to things the method that helps here faith rhead in shifts.

MOTAVE FOR MURDER.

Men's Reasons for Slaying their Fellow-THE MADE ESS WHICH RIOTS IN BLOOD. A Negro who had no Hard Peclings against his Victim-Mechanic Killed by a Cockinil Mixer.

New York Dispatch There is probably no civilized country in which life a held so lightly and murder committed so wantonly as in the United States. In this connection it is interesting to investigate the causes which inspire our red-handed malefactors to the crime they commit.

The fantestic fancy of the romancist could ereate no acronger reasons than those some of our murderers afford. The theory held by many that a madness comes over some men, whose fury can only be quenched in blood, re-

Like Guiteau, he was disappointed; as sought revenge, and the act recoiled upon himself. I repeat, in was he crazy?

The cases are indeed marvelously similar. It is difficult to comprehend how a same man, Guiteau, could reach the conclusion that he night slay the president of the United States and yet escape the penalty on the ground that a faction of the party which elected him felt a faction of the party which elected him felt bitter animosity towards his administration. And Guiteau never would have meached this denclusion had not the desire for revenge disturbed his reasoning powers. The lack of novelists of the first order in Germany is discussed by The Spectator, of London, which says that there is one circumstance that must strike even the most ordinary observer, and that is the frequent absence from the German mind of a sense of humor, for the want of this quality must preclude a writer from perceiving and delineating those delicate shades watch make up the varying and lifelite features of the human character.

To-mercow we shall probably have our usual account of Guiteau's Sunday recopiton. Why the officials in charge of the Washington jail should permit him to ho'd these Sunday receptions is not clear. The morbid curiosity that leads people to crewd about a monstrosity is well crough known. But why the jailers should in this present case be so ready to grant indulgence to that feeling is not coar. The case is above all other cases whatsoever the last that should be lightly treated. An appreciation of the gravity of the prisoner's crime and its atrocity ought to dictate his careful seclusion from the general eye excepting when in the necessities of the case he must be in court. The secounts which come from Monday to Monday of the disgusting exhibition Guitess is allowed to make of himself are calculated to arouse a question as to the fitness of his custodians to occupy any place where responsibility of any kind is involved.

CHRISTMAS DAY.

In the sparseness of American holidays it i matter of congratulation that the observance of Christmas day is increasing among us, and that in communities which formerly ignored the day, although they made much of the holicoming the gayest of our festivals, because tis the children's festival par excellence. It is the time when we may all try to be children once more, so that we may not be excluded from the sujoyments of the season. And so the old word is fulfilled, in that the hearts of the fathers are turned to the children, and we forget for a little time the care and weari less of life, to got back in a measure the brightest eignificance of the day. The human side of the festival commends it to many who have no manizing institution, spart from any theolog-Christendom commemorates the advent of observance of Christman has been modeled upon the pagan festivals which preceded the beginning of the Christian ora. For the building of hospitals for the sick and houses of refuge for the aged and poor, was only one of many manifestations of power of the new faith brought to man by the first preacher of the gospel of Jesus Christ. They who would aubstitute for this system of religion some other form of belief cone for humanity. They should remember on this day, which commonly commemorates the institution of Christianity, that the anniversary derives all its significance from its association with a great work of mercy and charity for man. "Hoigho!" sighed the girl, morrily, as she raised her right foot and languidly scratched her left anklessa small and proftily turned one, without sign of curb, ringbone, or spas in. "Rupert will not come to day. I shall not feel his strong arms around me, taste the nectar of his lips in a suising, passionate kiss nor quaff the aroma of his Cedar-Run, copper distilled two-drinks-for-a-quarter breath. Perhaps he does not love me. Sometimes in the long, still, stem-windit g watches of the night I awake suddenly with the thought that he is not true to me, that some haughty beauty over on the West Side has wen his heart, leaving me only the liver and digestive organs. Bu it cannot, must not be. Without the beacon-light of his love my life would be a starless blank-a mere altaos. No. I will no: doubt him; I will not rack my soul with the thought, that he could be untrue to me," and with those words the girl stepped into the conservatory, slucked a blush rose as d. placing it in her nut rown hair, walked slowly to her boucoir, Beating herself on a damask-covered fauteuil she touched the bell that stood on a table near by, and scarcely had its willyer tinkle consect to be heard when Namette MoGuire, her femme de chambre, prelied aside the damask curtains that hid from view an alcovo and entered the room. "Give me my volume of Tennyson's pooms

HORNE LOXE.

[From a paper read before the Salem, Mass., Club.] The horse has the smallest stomach in pro-portion to its size of any animal. Fifteen to portion to its size of any animal. Inteen to sixteen quarts is its utmost capacity. This space is completely filed by four quarts of oats and the saliva that goes in with them. Horses are generally everfed and not fed often enough. For a horse with moderate work six or eight quarts of bruised oats and ten pounds of the hay a fay, is sufficient. This His brother-in-law, in the November preceding pounds of fine hay a cay, is sufficient. This the assassination a letter identical in many respects with the one he left with me as a justification. A horse's digestion is very rapid, apects with the one he left with me as a statem of the control of his act. The arguments were all the same, the changes in the letter I destroyed being those which would naturally follow the change of plan from kidnaping to assassination."

Judge Porter objected to the form of the question and insisted that defense observe the same rule the prosecution actored to of letting each witness testify to what he knew, and not found an argument upon the evidence of another.

Guiteau—You are getting uncited, Porter.

Scoville—I must say Judge Porter can make the most of nothing of any man I ever met.

After further questions rejative to brain disease Scoville asked: "Is it true such disease can always be defeated by examination of that organ?"

Answer—I can only answer that there have been cause of brain diseases where, upon examination after death no lesion of the brain was detected.

Witness was about to make further explanations just as Scoville proposed the question.

Judge Porter to witness—Go on, dector, and finish your answer.

Audgo Porter to witness—Go on, dector, and finish your answer.

Scoville—Well, hold on a minute. We like to know who is conducting this examination, you or it Porter—I assume the court is conducting the trial, and to the court I shall appeal for enforcement of rules in practics. Witness is one of the most noted scientists of this country, and you must not attempt to treat him as though he were your schoolboy. I will not permit it.

Scoville (with some warmth)—Well, lot us see about it, then, Judge Porter.

Guiteau chimed in with a hit at Porter without raising his syes from his pamphlet, which he pretended to read. A broad grin overspread his features, and he seemed to enjoy greatly the storm of angry words. angry words.

Judge Cox inverposed with a few smooth words, and the examination proceeded for some time without accident.

When Porter again protested that Scoville should not be permitted to rebuke the witness, Scoville instead of making specthes to the jury.

Guitava shouted back at Porter while the latter was most impressively addressing the court and neither-gould be heard.

Judga Cox, securing silence, stated, while he did not desire to set hastily, he should publish the prisoner for contempt if he again transgressed the hounds of propriety.

Guitava said, he didn't appear as an ordinary criminal, but as his own counsel.

Reed fried to get a sategorical lanswer from witness on's hypothetical case and scharp colloquy between Reed and Porter ensued.

Guitesu interfected, Porter, you've got a mouth like an old outlash. You'll bring up in a luneito saylum yet. He soun after informed witness that he was the stupidest one yet, and as he stepped down said, now go get your $500 and go home.

Among the cases appealed to the supreme court, at the present term, is a suit in which the county judge of an inter or county is the plaintiff. The defendant appeals on the ground that the jury were for the most part in fear of the official power of the plaintiff; that five of them were road supervisors of the districts where they reside and owe their appointments to the plaintiff; that three more of them were administrators of estates of a coessed persons and habte to be hambnooted if they decided in defendant's favor. The defendant reminds me of a colored man who was fined $10 for being drunk and disorderly before Judge larr in drunk and anorderly before Jones and Macamento.
